Remarks by Bishop Hurley on the death of Osama bin Laden

“It would be my hope that bin Laden’s death can bring some closure to the pain and loss which so many have suffered during the past 10 years. This incident challenges us to reflect more deeply on the meaning of life and to work diligently so all people can live together in harmony despite differences. Let us continue to pray and to work for peace and mercy throughout the world.”

Most Reverend Walter A. Hurley
Bishop of the Diocese of Grand Rapids
